Native American Rights Fund, Inc.
Boulder, Colorado

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of Native American Rights Fund, Inc. Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America; this includes the design, implementation and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Board of Directors
Native American Rights Fund, Inc.

Supplementary Information

Our audits were conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the financial statements as a whole. The schedule of functional expenses listed in the table of contents is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the financial statements. Such information is the responsibility of management and was derived from and relates directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the financial statements. Notes to Financial Statements

September 30, 2016 and 2015

Note 1: Nature of Operations and Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Native American Rights Fund, Inc. (NARF) is a not-for-profit organization whose mission and principal activities are to provide legal representation, assistance and education to Native American people. NARF's revenues and other support are derived principally from support from private foundations, the United States government, public contributions and a limited fee policy with the majority of its funding derived from grant and contribution support and legal fees.

The activities of NARF include the following programs:

Litigation and Client Services

NARF provides legal representation, assistance and education to Native American people. The major areas of concentration include tribal restoration and recognition, land claims settlements, hunting and fishing rights, the protection of Indian religious freedom and education rights.

National Indian Law Library (NILL)

NILL is the national repository of, and clearinghouse for, materials in Indian law. NILL collects and distributes catalogues and other materials used for legal and educational purposes. NILL also provides reference and research assistance.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues, expenses, gains, losses and other changes in net assets during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Cash

Cash consists of bank deposits in federally insured accounts. At September 30, 2016, NARF's cash accounts exceeded federally insured limits by approximately $891,000.

Accounts Receivable

Accounts receivable are stated at the amount billed to customers plus any accrued and unpaid interest. NARF provides an allowance for doubtful accounts, which is based upon a review of outstanding receivables, historical collection information and existing economic conditions. Delinquent receivables are written off based on individual account evaluation and specific circumstances of the client.

Investments and Investment Return

Investments in equity securities having a readily determinable fair value and all debt securities are carried at fair value. Other investments are valued at the lower of cost (or fair value at time of donation, if acquired by contribution) or fair value. Investment return includes dividend, interest and other investment income; realized and unrealized gains and losses on investments carried at fair value; and realized gains and losses on other investments.

Investment returns that are initially restricted by donor stipulation and for which the restriction will be satisfied in the same year are recorded as temporarily restricted and then released from restriction. Other investment returns are reflected in the statements of activities as unrestricted, temporarily restricted or permanently restricted based upon the existence and nature of any donor or legally imposed restrictions.

Collections

Collections of works of art, historical treasures and similar assets are not capitalized in as much as the items are preserved and cared for continuously. Purchases of collection items are reported in the year of acquisition as decreases in unrestricted net assets, or in temporarily or permanently restricted net assets if the assets used to purchase the items were restricted to that use by donor stipulation. Contributions of collection items are not reported in the financial statements. Proceeds from disposal of and insurance recoveries related to collection items are reported as increases in the appropriate net asset classes.

NARF's collections consist of rare books and maps. These collections are held for educational and research purposes. They are subject to a policy that requires proceeds from the disposition of collection items to be used to acquire other collection items.

No collection items were sold or removed in 2016 and 2015.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment are depreciated on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful life of each asset. Assets under capital lease obligations are depreciated over the shorter of the lease term or their respective estimated useful lives.

Deferred Revenue

Revenue from fees for legal services is deferred and recognized over the periods to which the fees relate.

Funds Held on Behalf of Others

Funds held on behalf of others represent assets collected from external donors for the benefit of an inter-tribal coalition (the Coalition). NARF and the Coalition's mission statements align and NARF has not been granted variance power over how the funds received are spent. The unspent balance of the funds collected is accounted for as a liability by NARF.

Notes to Financial Statements
September 30, 2016 and 2015

Temporarily and Permanently Restricted Net Assets

Temporarily restricted net assets are those whose use by NARF has been limited by donors to a specific time period or purpose. Permanently restricted net assets have been restricted by donors to be maintained by NARF in perpetuity.

Contributions

Gifts of cash and other assets received without donor stipulations are reported as unrestricted revenue and net assets. Gifts received with a donor stipulation that limits their use are reported as temporarily or permanently restricted revenue and net assets. When a donor stipulated time restriction ends or purpose restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statements of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Gifts and investment income that are originally restricted by the donor and for which the restriction is met in the same time period are recorded as temporarily restricted and then released from restriction.

Gifts of land, buildings, equipment and other long-lived assets are reported as unrestricted revenue and net assets unless explicit donor stipulations specify how such assets must be used, in which case the gifts are reported as temporarily or permanently restricted revenue and net assets. Absent explicit donor stipulations for the time long-lived assets must be held, expirations of restrictions resulting in reclassification of temporarily restricted net assets as unrestricted net assets are reported when the long-lived assets are placed in service.

Unconditional gifts expected to be collected within one year are reported at their net realizable value. Unconditional gifts expected to be collected in future years are initially reported at fair value determined using the discounted present value of estimated future cash flows technique. The resulting discount is amortized using the level-yield method and is reported as contribution revenue.

Conditional gifts depend on the occurrence of a specified future and uncertain event to bind the potential donor and are recognized as assets and revenue when the conditions are substantially met and the gift becomes unconditional.

In-kind Contributions

Contributed goods and services are recorded as in-kind contributions and corresponding expenses at their estimated fair values at the date of donation. In-kind contributions for the years ended September 30, 2016 and 2015 consisted of in-kind public service announcements, which are not reflected in the accompanying financial statements because NARF provided minimal input in producing and placing the announcements.

Government Grants

Support funded by grants is recognized as NARF performs the contracted services or incurs outlays eligible for reimbursement under the grant agreements. Grant activities and outlays are subject to audit and acceptance by the granting agency and, as a result of such audit, adjustments could be required.

Native American Rights Fund, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
September 30, 2016 and 2015

Income Taxes

NARF is exempt from income taxes under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and a similar provision of state law. However, NARF is subject to federal income tax on any unrelated business taxable income.

Functional Allocation of Expenses

The costs of supporting the various programs and other activities have been summarized on a functional basis in the statements of activities. Certain costs have been allocated among the programs and supporting services benefited.

Transfers Between Fair Value Hierarchy Levels

Transfers in and out of Level 1 (quoted market prices), Level 2 (other significant observable inputs) and Level 3 (significant unobservable inputs) are recognized on the actual transaction date.

Fund liquidation is planned in five years. After one year of investment, upon written request with one month notice, funds can be redeemed on a quarterly basis. Since year-end, NARF has received $22,875,000 of contribution support as a result of these favorable outcomes. NARF deems these contributions as conditional promises to give, with the condition being met upon formal, documented Federal approval of the settlements. Therefore, as of September 30, 2016, these conditional promises to give are not recorded as approval was obtained after the reporting date.

Note 8: Endowment

NARF's endowment consists of one fund established for the 21st Century Endowment. As of September 30, 2016, the endowment includes only donor-restricted endowment funds. As required by accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAP), net assets associated with endowment funds are classified and reported based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions.

NARF has interpreted the State of Colorado's Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act (UPMIFA) as requiring preservation of the fair value of the original gift as of the gift date of the donor-restricted endowment funds absent explicit donor stipulations to the contrary. Although NARF is incorporated in Washington, D.C., its headquarters are located in Boulder, Colorado. Management has compared the acts from the two jurisdictions and does not believe differences between the two jurisdictions to be significant. As a result of this interpretation, NARF classifies as permanently restricted net assets (a) the original value of gifts donated to the permanent endowment, (b) the original value of subsequent gifts to the permanent endowment and (c) accumulations to the permanent endowment made in accordance with the direction of the applicable donor gift instrument at the time the accumulation is added to the fund. The remaining portion of donor-restricted endowment funds is classified as temporarily restricted net assets until those amounts are appropriated for expenditure by NARF in a manner consistent with the standard of prudence prescribed by UPMIFA.

NARF has adopted investment and spending policies for endowment assets that attempt to invest all available endowment fund assets in a manner that will provide the highest total return while seeking to provide for the long- and short-term financial needs of NARF and maintain the original donated value of the endowment. Endowment assets include only donor-restricted endowment funds NARF must hold in perpetuity or for donor-specified periods.

Under NARF's policies, endowment assets are invested in a manner that is intended to produce results that exceed the rate of inflation as measured by the Consumer Price Index plus 4.5% while accepting a high level of risk tolerance.

To satisfy its long-term rate of return objectives, NARF relies on a total return strategy in which investment returns are achieved through both current yield (investment income such as dividends and interest) and capital appreciation (both realized and unrealized). NARF targets a diversified asset allocation that places a greater emphasis on equity-based investments to achieve its long-term return objectives within prudent risk constraints.

NARF has a spending policy of appropriating for expenditure each year the amounts needed and available for spending. NARF has interpreted that investment return generated by the endowment assets are unrestricted in accordance with donor stipulations. Under NARF's spending policy, any anticipated investment return from the endowment is included in NARF's internal budgeting process and fully appropriated for spending upon adoption of the budget. Management has elected to combine its investments related to the endowment with other investments. As the proceeds from endowment earnings are unrestricted, management has not allocated the earnings between those earned by endowment funds and other investments. As such, management has not included investment return in the table above.

Note 10: Retirement Benefits

On August 6, 1994, NARF's Board of Directors authorized the adoption of a noncontributory defined contribution plan for its employees. Effective March 18, 2005, this plan was amended to a Safe Harbor 401(k). Benefits payable under the plan include a 3% minimum safe harbor contribution plus an additional election of 3%, at the yearly discretion of the corporate officers, for those employees who have achieved a minimum of one year of employment and attainment of age 21. Pension expense was $246,823 and $239,353 for 2016 and 2015, respectively.

On August 17, 2007, NARF's executive committee authorized the adoption of the NARF Retirement Program. This program provides a one-time cash award payable at the date of retirement for eligible employees. The amount of this award is determined by incorporating years of service, age and average three-year salary. As of September 30, 2016 and 2015, NARF recognized a liability of $307,342 and $288,114, respectively, relating to this program.

Note 11: Allocation of Joint Costs

It is NARF's policy to allocate costs of activities that include requests for contributions, as well as program and management and general components to applicable functions. Activities include distribution of informational materials that included fundraising appeals. In 2016 and 2015, all activities conducted included requests for contributions. As a result, 100% of such activities were fundraising related and did not contain a programmatic component.

Note 12: Disclosures about Fair Value of Assets and Liabilities

Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. Fair value measurements must maximize the use of observable inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs. There is a hierarchy of three levels of inputs that may be used to measure fair value:

- Level 1 Quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities
- Level 2 Observable inputs other than Level 1 prices, such as quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities; quoted prices in markets that are not active; or other inputs that are observable or can be corroborated by observable market data for substantially the full term of the assets or liabilities
- Level 3 Unobservable inputs that are supported by little or no market activity and that are significant to the fair value of the assets or liabilities

Following is a description of the inputs and valuation methodologies used for assets and liabilities measured at fair value on a recurring basis and recognized in the accompanying statements of financial position, as well as the general classification of such assets and liabilities pursuant to the valuation hierarchy. There have been no significant changes in the valuation techniques during the year ended September 30, 2016.

Investments

Where quoted market prices are available in an active market, securities are classified within Level 1 of the valuation hierarchy. Level 1 securities include fixed income securities, equities and mutual funds. If quoted market prices are not available, then fair values are estimated by using pricing models, quoted prices of securities with similar characteristics or discounted cash flows. Invested funds as reported by the investment manager and no further adjustments have been made. There were no Level 2 securities for fiscal year 2016 or 2015. In certain cases where Level 1 or Level 2 inputs are not available, securities are classified within Level 3 of the hierarchy. NARF does not have any Level 3 investments.
